POSITION
Teaching Assistant in Legal Informatics and Legal Theory, Coordinator Contact of the European project "Small Claims Analysis Net, LUISS Libera Università
Internazionale degli Studi Sociali 'Guido Carli'. Department of Law. Viale
Pola, 12 - 00198 – Rome.

PERSONAL STATEMENT
Teaching Assistant in Legal Informatics and Legal Theory at LUISS Guido Carli, Coordinator Contact of the European project "Small Claims Analysis Net", Team Member of the European project "Conflict Resolution with Equitative Algorithms", Trainee Lawyer.

I graduated on October, the 17th of 2017 with the evaluation of 110 with honors, with a Master's degree thesis in Legal Logic and Legal Informatics with Professor Francesco Romeo at the Department of Law of the University of Naples 'Federico II'. I created a neural network analyzing civil liability in controversies about infiltration damages from solar paving.
I deal with Artificial Intelligence, machine learning, data protection, IT security and robotics in the law domain. As a Trainee Lawyer, I deal with Labour Law, EU Law, Civil Law, Commercial Law, Company Law. My studies also focus on Alternative Disputes Resolution through the use of fair algorithms created by Steven Brams and on the European Small Claims Procedure, introduced by EU Regulation 2007/861.
Indeed, I am Coordinator Contact of the European project "Small Claims Analysis Net", which deals with the implementation of European Small Claims Procedure. I am Team Member of the European project C.R.E.A. (Conflict Resolution with Equitative Algorithms). This project has realized a fair algorithm capable of fair divisions in Matrimonial Regimes, Company Law, Inheritance Law. I have dealt with the identification of mandatory rules and privacy policy. I'm editor of the I-Lex, review directed by Professor Romeo, about Legal Informatics.
